Fillable pages: pages marked “fillable” have type-in boxes that work in free Adobe Acrobat Reader on a computer or phone. You can type names, dates, jobs, rules, token ideas and plan answers. Colors and pictures can't be changed. Every fillable page also prints blank for writing by hand.

Start here, grown-ups

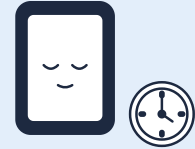

This kit gives your day a simple shape: jobs first, then play and time together, then screens at their usual spot. Nothing to take away, only more play to add.

1 · Jobs first

2 · Then play and time together

3 · Then screens, at their spot

Set up in 2 minutes

Pick one checklist per child. Pictures for ages 2–5, or the fillable blank. Choose a colorway they like.

Write in your screen spot. For example, “after dinner”. Keep it the same every day, and the same length.

Cut the together tokens. Keep them in an envelope. A grown-up keeps the pieces.

Put it at eye level. Walk through it together once: “First jobs, then we play, then screens.”

Why play first, in plain words

Children practice talking, taking turns and solving problems through back-and-forth: you say something, they answer, you answer back. Jobs, play and meals are full of these turns. Putting them first simply makes more room for them in the day. For ages 1–4, the World Health Organization suggests at least 180 minutes of active play a day (WHO, 2019).

Three talk lines for any page

Pause and wait.

Count to five in your head. Give them a turn to talk, point or sign.

Say what you see.

“You put out the spoons. One, two, three spoons!”

Repeat and add one word.

“Ball.” “Big ball!” “Big red ball!”

Talk, sign, sing and read in the language you know best. Every language counts. A sign, a point or a tap counts as communicating, too. Write your own words, in any language, on the blank pages. You don’t need to be chatty: reading a talk line word for word, or playing quietly side by side, counts too.

How it works at each age

Use what fits: ages are a starting point, and pictures work at any age. Most children love 2 or 3 of these tools; that's normal.

☐ AGES 2-5

Point and say each picture on the checklist. Use the Play-First Board to show first, then, later. Two or three helping jobs a day is plenty.

○ ALL AGES

Big brothers and sisters can join in: the together tokens, the Family Plan and the rules poster work at any age. Pictures work at any age too.

How screens fit in this kit

- Screens have a fixed spot in the day, the same time and about the same length each day.
- The spot never grows or shrinks with jobs or behavior. That keeps screens from becoming the prize, so jobs and play can simply be part of the day.
- Tokens are for play and time together (a story, a game, a walk), never screen minutes. Time together is never taken away as a punishment.
- A talker (a device a child uses to talk) is their voice, not screen time. It stays with them at meals, in the car and at night.
- Video calls with people you love are talk time, not screen time. Wave, show and tell.
- End gently with the screen-spot cards: 5 more minutes, then Screens go to sleep, then What we do next.

5 more minutes

Screens go to sleep

What we do next

When stopping is hard

Stay close and name it: "It's hard to stop. You wish it was longer." Then show What we do next. Big feelings at the end are normal, and the spot comes back tomorrow.

If interest fades

Move the chart, swap in a fresh token, or fill in a blank checklist for a grown-up; kids love ticking yours. Tired day? Just say the rhythm out loud: "Jobs, play, then screens." That counts.

Every play works from a chair, a bed or a wheelchair. Bring it to a table or tray and let your child do the fetching. Any sound play can be a see-it or feel-it play: a light flick for "stop," a hand on the pot for the beat.

Print it, make it last

About 20 minutes to print and cut, then reusable. The checklists need no cutting: start today.

Printing

- Print at 100% / Actual size. Don't use "fit to page" for tokens and cards.
- US Letter file for the US and Canada; A4 for everywhere else.
- Charts: regular paper. Tokens, cards and the board: cardstock (65–110 lb / 176–300 gsm).
- The low-ink file has white backgrounds and line art children can color.

Make it last

- Laminate the charts and use a dry-erase marker, week after week.
- No laminator? Slide charts into clear page protectors. Dry-erase works on those too.
- Laminate tokens before cutting, then cut on the dashed lines, leaving a thin sealed edge.

Hook-and-loop dots: ages 3 and up

- Hook-and-loop dots are small enough to be a choking risk for under-3s.
- Under 3: no dots. Lay tokens on top of the board, or slip the board into a page protector and tuck the token inside.
- Check dots before each play; remove any that lift.

Shopping list (whole kit, printed once)

- Regular paper: about 10 sheets (the charts you pick)
- Cardstock: 4 sheets (2 token sheets, cards, board)
- 6 laminating pouches, or 6 page protectors
- 1 dry-erase marker · 1 envelope for tokens
- Optional, ages 3+: 12 pairs of hook-and-loop dots

Safety notes

- Grown-up keeps the pieces. Every cut piece is 2.1 in (5.3 cm) or larger, bigger than the toilet-paper-tube test for under-3s. Print at 100% so they stay that size, and store them out of reach.
- A grown-up stays close for every play. Water, bubbles and cooking: always within arm's reach. Grown-ups handle knives, heat and glass.
- Every play follows our published safety rules.

Actual size
2.1 in (5.3 cm)

Small-parts size about 1.25 in

Check your print

After printing the tokens, measure this square. It should be 2.1 in (5.3 cm) on each side. If it's smaller, your printer shrank the page: print again at 100% / Actual size.

The circle shows the small-parts size for under-3s. Every piece in this kit is much bigger.

Watching and playing together

When you can, choose together, watch together, and talk about it after: "Who was your favorite? What would you do?"

Shows, games or videos we enjoy together:

What the guidelines say

- Ages 1–4: at least 180 minutes a day of active play, in any mix. No screen time under age 1; no more than 1 hour a day at ages 2–4 (WHO, 2019).
- Ages 2–5: about 1 hour a day of high-quality programs, watched together when you can (AAP, 2016).
- For families: choose screen-free times and places together, like meals, car rides and bedrooms, and make a family plan (AAP, 2016). For older children, there's no single number; this plan helps you choose what fits.

Sources: World Health Organization, Guidelines on physical activity, sedentary behaviour and sleep for children under 5 years of age (2019). American Academy of Pediatrics, "Media and Young Minds," Pediatrics 2016;138(5). Every family is different; your pediatrician is a good person to ask about your child.

When plans change, and our promises

Sick days, travel and long waits happen. Some days need more screens, and that’s okay. Tomorrow, we go back to our rhythm.

On busy, sick or travel days, our plan is:

Grown-up promises

For example: “I’ll give a 5-minute heads-up.” “I’ll put my screen away at meals too.”

Kid promises

For example: “When the card says ‘Screens go to sleep’, I’ll find a stopping place.”

We’ll look at this plan again on _____
