

Fewer screen battles. More play and talk.

A gentle, practical 30-day plan for busy families. Each day brings one short lesson, one easy play with things you already have, and plain words for a tricky moment: the show that won't end, "I'm bored", the hour before dinner, waiting rooms, car rides and "everyone else gets to".

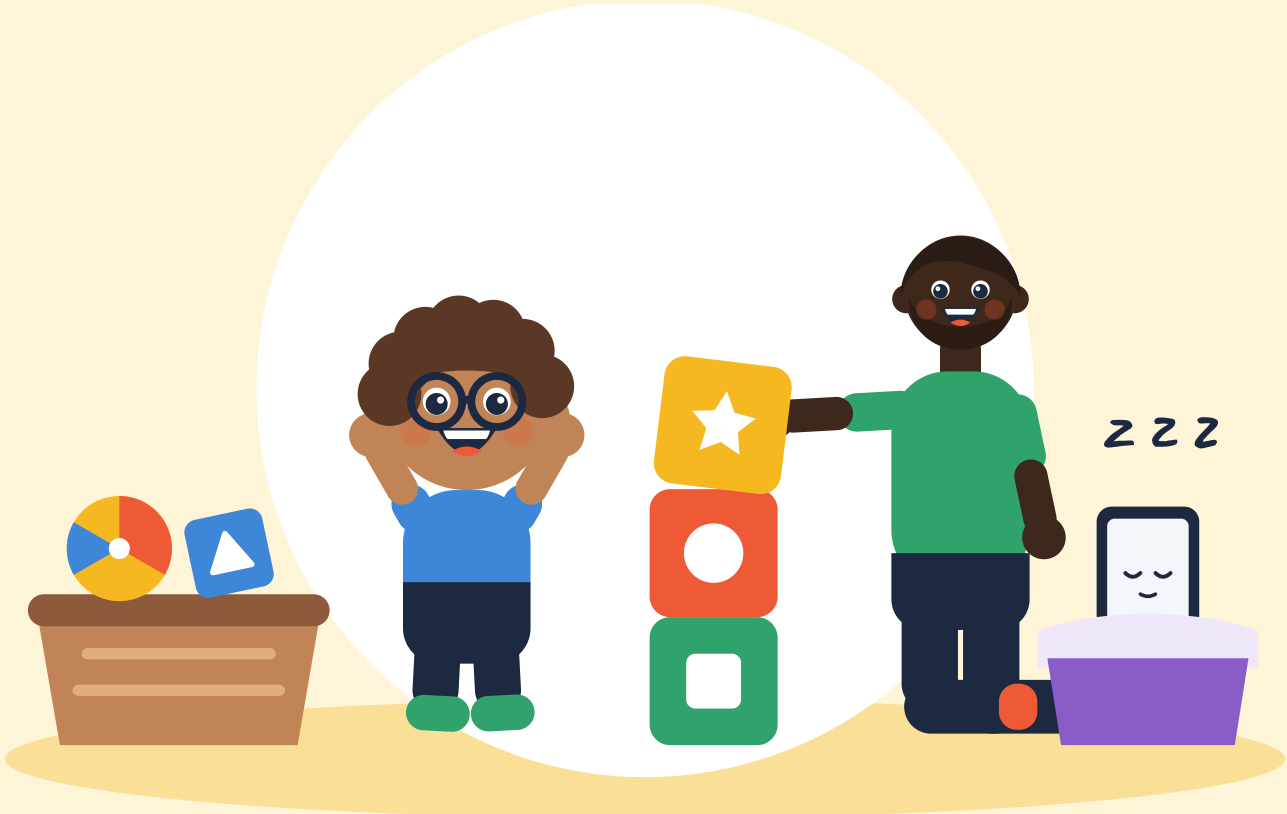

- 30 lessons you can read in about three minutes
- 30 plays, each with an easier version, a big-kid version and a 2-minute version for tired days
- 38 scripts for tricky moments, plus trackers, planning pages and a family plan
- No banning. Screens get a steady spot in the day and are never a reward or a punishment

For families with children aged 1 to 12. Black-and-white interior. Parent education, not medical advice.

More from Play Before Pixels
100 Screen-Free Plays · The Day the Tablet Slept · Up! Go! More!

30 Day Screen Reset

A play-first plan for families

30 short lessons 30 easy plays 30 plain-word scripts

For families with children aged 1 to 12